

Recovery Program Assists Small Business Owners

Working Together – Economic Recovery Network

The Leeds Grenville Small Business Centre was received additional funding from the Province of Ontario to assist small business owners that have been affect by COVID-19. The program offers free training, coaching and one on one time with an expert to assist small business owners refocus and plan for the future.

The new funding will assist The Small Business Enterprise Centre Network to expand the capacity of virtual business advisory services and improve access to funding, crucial information, and resources to equip businesses to respond to Covid-19 and grow.

The program includes three streams of assistance.

Business Plan review and refocus

In a group setting the participant will revisit their plan, and cashflow to determine the next steps for their business. This session is lead by our Business Plan expert Karen MacDonald Hurley.

Business Coaching

In a group setting the participant will learn how to set goals and move forward in their business. They will take an in depth look at their past results and set goals to move forward. This program uses tools that will help the owner make decisions. The participants will be asked to be held accountable for the best result. These sessions will be led by Kevin Savoy of Bynan Business Solutions.

Ask the Expert

The program includes one on one time with an expert who will provide advice on individual matters.

The topics include: Business Planning, Finance, Cashflow, Human Resources, Legal, Accounting and Processes.
